

How to Ride: Fixed Route Public Transit

1. After determining your route and departure time, be at the nearest bus stop at least 5 minutes before the bus is scheduled to arrive.
2. As the bus comes down the street, check the destination sign to make sure it is the route number and destination you want. Signal the bus driver with a wave of your hand to indicate you want to board.
3. Climb aboard and let the driver know where you would like to get off.
4. If you will be transferring to another transportation service, let your driver know and they will make your connection as smooth as possible.
5. One block from your stop, tell the driver where you need to get off. Drivers of fixed route buses are instructed to announce stops at the following:
  - Transfer points with other fixed routes
  - Major intersections or destination points
  - Sufficient intervals along a route to orient a passenger with a visual disability to his or her location
  - Any stop requested by a passenger with a disability
6. Check to make sure you haven't left anything behind, then exit.
